
 Click to Print

SAVE THIS | EMAIL THIS | Close

Text

Artists Phillipe Pasquier (left), Melanie Cassidy and Michael Filimowicz display their work, entitled Lingua Aqua, one of six public art proposals for the city’s Catalysts, Connections and Intersections project.

BOAZ JOSEPH / THE LEADER

Buy Surrey Leader Photos Online

 Email  Print  Letter to Editor  Share

Surrey North Delta Leader

Artists in the city

By Black Press - Surrey North Delta Leader

Published: November 10, 2008 3:00 PM

Updated: November 10, 2008 3:24 PM

A host of dynamic new artworks is coming to Surrey.

Catalysts, Connections and Intersections, a series of site-specific works, is meant to explore Surrey’s natural and built heritage, cultural diversity and First Nations history.

Artists Phillipe Pasquier, Melanie Cassidy and Michael Filimowicz’s work Lingua Aqua is one of six public art projects being installed in the city.

Other participating artists include Eric Robertson, who has planned six ecologically themed sculptures at public intersections within Green Timbers Greenway; Lorna Boschman, Cease Wyss and Vicki Moulder, who proposed “Talking Pole,” a series of light and sound-emitting installations for six intersections; Leslie and Leonard Wells, whose carvings will be near First Nations land in Surrey and celebrate diversity; Karen Kazmer, whose project will create visual markers to support use of the City Centre Walking Loop Greenway; and Paul Slipper, a stone sculptor who will produce three historical granite figures and sidewalk inserts in Cloverdale.

Installation of the artworks is scheduled for 2009.

newsroom@surreyleader.com

Find this article at:

http://www.bclocalnews.com/surrey\_area/surreyleader/entertainment/34228659.html

SAVE THIS | EMAIL THIS | Close

Check the box to include the list of links referenced in the article.

© Copyright Black Press. All rights reserved.